SUNDAY SCHOOL FIELD DAY.

The Sunday School picnic held at the Oxford County Agricultural Society's Fair Grounds, Tuesday, by the Sunday schools of the central district, was a success in every way. The day was an ideal one, and early the picnicers began to arrive at the South Paris station, where upon the arrival of the trains, delegates from Bethel, Locke's Mills, Bryant's Pond, West Paris, Mechanic Falls and Oxford, were met.

The line of march was formed headed by the drum and proceeded to the fair grounds. During the day there was a large number present to enjoy the sports. Music for the occasion was furnished by Shaw's orchestra of South Paris.

The morning exercises were opened by prayer by Rev. H. L. Nichols of Norway. The speaker of the forenoon was Prof. Henry M. Brown of Colby College, who was introduced by Rev. A. T. McWhorter of South Paris. Prof. Brown gave a very interesting and instructive address taking for his main subject, "Foods."

He emphasized the fact that everything in life is for a purpose and that nothing is by chance, that the winds that blow, the mosquitoes that sometimes bother and even death, all have a place in the great plan. That God is a God of Love and that man must gain knowledge from Him and make this life most useful.

Mr. Brown's address was deep, inspiring and interesting and he held the closest attention of the large audience. At noon, a basket lunch was enjoyed. The afternoon was devoted to athletics.

Howe Takes His Life.

Friday morning Henry Howe of Yaggar attempted suicide by shooting. For some time now he has been having spells of despondency. Thursday night he stayed at the home of Frank Morrill and left Friday morning, as they supposed, for his camp, where he lives in the woods. Friday afternoon Mrs. Virgil Dunn was passing by the camp and hearing a strange thumping noise, she was alarmed and reported the news to her husband. Mr. Dunn investigated and found Howe in a delirious condition with three bullet wounds in the breast.

It seems that Howe had gone into the woods on leaving Morrill's and had been seized with a fit of despondency in which he had tried to shoot himself through the breast. The news was three bullet wounds and two broken ribs on the left side, made in the attempt to put a bullet through his heart.

This occurred at about 8:30 o'clock in the morning and he had crawled on his hands and knees to his camp home, where he was found late in the afternoon.

He died early Sunday morning, pneumonia having developed after his admission to the hospital.

J. Frank Gibson.

J. Frank Gibson of Visalia, the county seat of Tulare County, California, with his wife, has been visiting his brother Harry E. Gibson and other relatives here. Mr. Gibson was delegate to the Republican National Convention at Chicago, and after seeing Niagara Falls, the Thousand Isles and other points of interest, came to Norway for a few days' stay.

Mr. Gibson was born in Norway in February, 1857, and was the second child of a family of eight. All but Harry are now in California. His parents were George E. and Mary E. (Randall) Gibson. For many years his father was one of the leading citizens of Norway. His grandfather, Hon. Samuel Gibson, served in the State Legislature from Denmark and as sheriff of the County of Oxford. He came to Norway late in life and died at his son's on the David Noyes place near the center of the town.

Mr. J. Frank Gibson married Miss Charlotte S. daughter of Henry H. Hobbs. They had three boys and two girls. The boys are settled in business in California and the daughters are married. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson have families of their own. Mr. Gibson's wife died and he married Miss Bessie George of Illinois. They have no children.

Mr. Gibson has attained great success in business. He has been one of the assessors of Tulare County for eight years and for six years has been connected with the Bank of Visalia and is now Vice President of that institution and has charge of the loans.

It is only in recent years that he became interested in politics. He is a leader of the Republican party in his section of California and has been selected for legislative honors and will probably be elected as a member of Congress. As no one born here has yet attained that honor, Mr. Gibson will doubtless be the first Norwegian man to serve in that body.

As soon as account of stock is taken the firm will start on another white buck run and Mr. Richardson will resume his position as head of the last department. He has been with the Kieley firm for some time and is highly regarded both by members of the firm and workmen in the last room.

On Friday evening the Pythian Sisterhood gave Gladys Edwards, a shower. Miss Edwards went to the hall supposing she was to attend a Pythian Sisterhood rehearsal, and upon opening the door found her way obstructed by a daisy chain held by Irene Nevers and Hilda Russell, who showered her with confetti. Daisy chains suspended from the top of the door led to a table containing a large June box, which contained package after package, and the wrappings removed, revealed many dainty pieces of linen, china, pictures, a sofa pillow and other articles.

After the shower, a short program was given. Bibby Flint recited, "The Glove and the Baby," and "Kittens and Babies," and Berenice Nash sang "There's a Long, Long Trail" and "I Saw a Star," to her own accompaniment. NO REASON FOR IT

When Norway Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Norway citizen says:

S. C. Foster, barber, Main St., Norway, says: "I was troubled by kidney complaint some years ago and I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Stone's Drug Store. A couple of boxes gave me relief."

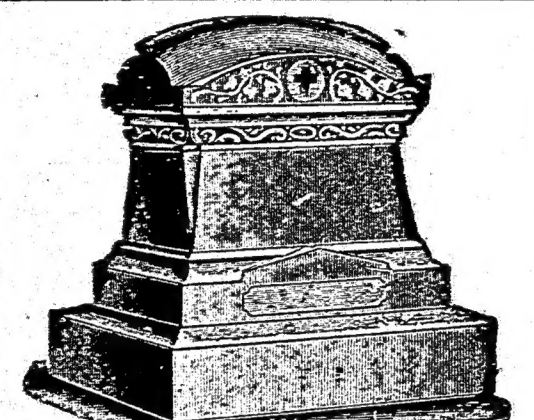

Three years later Mr. Foster said: "I use Doan's Kidney Pills now and then and they keep my kidneys in excellent condition."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Foster had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. 25-26

Watch Your Health—Keep Well!

People who grow careless about their daily habits seldom reach old age. Disease claims them before their allotted time; they die prematurely. Nature must be served. She is long suffering, but you cannot escape the consequences of neglecting her daily demands. For your health's sake, answer promptly every call of the bowels and kidneys. Make this the most important thing of the day, and give it instant attention, if you hope to keep well and live long. Whenever the stomach or bowels fail to act thoroughly, take "L. F." Atwood's Medicine, and be free from constipation and its long train of ills. When the stomach, liver or blood need regulating, it acts promptly, and is safe for every member of the family. Buy a 35c bottle at your nearest store, or write to-day for free sample. "L. F." Medicine Co., Portland, Me.

ALBANY

Anna Cummings, who has been at work for her sister, Mrs. Seiden Gould, of Lewiston, for the past year, left after May Gould returned home from her school in Orange, Mass. Ray Gould, the youngest son of the Gould family graduated from the Lewiston High school, Friday, June 23.

Anna Cummings made a short visit at the Corner, her sister, Mrs. A. G. Bean, went with her as far as Oxford to visit Frank Bean's family. Miss Anna Cummings goes to Portland, Thursday, to work for her cousin, Dr. Charles Hutchinson, formerly an Albany boy, raised near what is called the Hutchinson Pond.

A few of the Uriah Holt family have been heard from lately as they have been sending presents toward paying for the new piano. This family once lived up on what is now called Bell Hill. If the families in this town were as willing to pay a small amount towards paying for the piano as the old residents that have moved out of town have done, the piano would have all been paid for a long time ago. There was a paper started just before we held the memorial celebration in Albany for every one that felt like chipping in a little towards paying for music, flags, speaker, bananas and cheese to put on the table and all the rest of the money was going to be paid on the new piano, which cost about $300. More than one-half of the citizens in this town never have paid toward the piano, only as they went to the Circles and paid ten cents for their supper, and the money went towards the piano. There is no profit in getting up a good supper at our Circle and sell the supper for ten cents.

This is the most backward season that has been known for many years. Farmers are just finishing planting this week. Hoeing, planting, working on the road, peeling pulp timber and having are all coming about together this summer.

Rev. Mr. Griffith, our minister, made some good remarks in the afternoon, also Mr. Garelson, our superintendent of schools of North Lovell. Mrs. Garelson of North Lovell gave us some good music on the piano and several other ladies.

A few days ago Abel Andrews and Woodsum Scribner went up into the town of Bethel and purchased a little yearling bull about the size of a good calf, girthing three feet, 10 inches, but he proved to be quite a wrestler. He took Woodsum Scribner down two times before he got home. A few days after, Mr. Andrews saw the bull out in the pasture, standing on a ledge, so he goes and gets some salt and carried it upon the ledge, where the bull was. About the time he got upon the ledge the little bull went to wrestle, so he challenged Abel, but Abel being a more experienced wrestler than Mr. Scribner, got both underholts on the bull and threw him flat on the ledge. Now boys when you want to wrestle with Abel, you must remember that he is the champion wrestler of the town.

The next Circle will be July 6.

Editor of Zion's Advocate.
Rev. W. A. Smith is to leave his pastorate at Hebron to become editor of Zion's Advocate, while Dr. J. W. Wilson is to assume the associate editorship of the Watchman-Examiner. This news comes as a distinct surprise to everyone, and is sure to create a wide stir in Baptist circles, not only in Maine, but in all New England. This change in the editorship of the Advocate, so suddenly made public, has been in contemplation for several weeks. Since Dr. Wilson decided to accept the position of associate editor of the Watchman-Examiner, the directors of the Advocate Publishing Company have had the matter of his successor under advisement. They feel that they have made no mistake in the selection of Rev. William Abbott Smith to fill the vacancy.

So many years has Dr. Wilson been at the head of the Advocate that the change in editorship seems almost revolutionary. But the newly elected editor needs no introduction to Maine nor to the Maine Baptists. He is a Maine man by birth and education, the son of the late Prof. S. K. Smith of Colby College, who was himself editor of the Advocate from 1848 to 1890. He was born in Waterville, graduated from Colby College in 1891, and from Newton Theological Institute in 1896, studied at the University of Halle, Germany, in 1896 and 1897, then served as submaster of Waterville high school from 1898 to 1902. In 1903 he married Lois E. Hoxie of Waterville and was that year a graduate of Colby. In the same year Mr. Smith became the first pastor of the Central Square Baptist church in Portland, remaining there five years. In 1908 he accepted a call to the Second Church, Suffield, Conn., where he ministered to the teachers and students of the Connecticut Literary Institute. Here he remained until last March, when he resigned to enter upon his pastorate at Hebron.

Although without editorial experience, Mr. Smith is believed to possess abilities and qualifications which admirably fit him for his new position. With marked literary tastes and inclinations, he combines a sound and balanced judgment and a wide-visioned knowledge of and interest in denominational affairs. While in discriminating and sympathetic touch with modern religious thinking, he is in hearty accord with the evangelistic position always maintained by the Advocate, and the readers of the paper need have no fear of any deviation from its well known aims and purposes under the new management.

Mr. Smith has resigned his pastorate of the Hebron church just in its auspicious opening. The people at Hebron are very reluctant to have him go, but they realize that their loss is the gain of Maine Baptists in general, and their best wishes go with the pastor as he assumes his new duties. In reading his resignation to the Hebron church, Mr. Smith said: "I would not leave you to accept a call to any other parish. But this summons to the Advocate is so peculiar in its interests, so large in its possibilities for service, and so thoroughly insistent that I feel it my highest duty to accept."

Mr. Smith assumes editorship of the Advocate with the first issue in August. It is the purpose of the retiring editor to take the month of August for a needed vacation, going to his new post in Boston September first. He entered upon his editorial duties January 1, 1905, and at the time of his retirement will have served 11 years and 7 months, being the point of service fourth in the line of the seven editors of the Advocate since its founding, November 11, 1838.

EXIT BLUE MONDAY

Why? Because she has plenty of hot water. Her New Perfection Kerosene Water Heater supplies all the hot water she needs for kitchen and bathroom and it costs less than it would to keep a hot fire going in the range. Mrs. Sprightly lets the range go out altogether in the summer time—does her cooking on a New Perfection Oil Cook Stove.

It's the famous long blue chimney burner that makes New Perfection oil-burning devices efficient and trouble-proof. 1916 model New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves have the new patented reversible glass reservoir and many other improvements. Sold in 1, 2, 3, and 4 burner sizes by dealers everywhere.

A small building used for storing oil between the two shoe factories, took fire Thursday morning. An alarm was promptly given which called out the fire department. The barrels were taken out and the fire soon subsided.

Norway is solving the problem of road repairing in a novel way. In one of our districts the men decided they would no longer oversee the mending of the roads as it was a thankless job at best and they were all busy with their work. But the roads were in a bad condition and must be repaired. A lady was appointed surveyor and she undertook the work with the determination to succeed. The road machine had put the road in first-class shape. * * * Who was this woman? Will some one inform us?

Twenty-five Years Ago This Week. Wm. F. and Otis Jones, Jr., sons of Otis Jones of Boston are here to spend their summer vacation from Harvard and Boston High school.

Luther F. Pike is almost 87 years old and Mrs. Olive Mills is 97. They are the oldest persons in town.

St. John's Day was fittingly observed by Paris Lodge, No. 94 with invited guests. Some 400 were in the procession and enjoyed a clam-bake on the Fair Grounds.

Twenty-four Years Ago This Week. James Hill's horse, while hitched to a post near Stone's Drug Store became frightened Wednesday evening and broke away and ran down the street turning into Cottage street. The carriage was a complete wreck and the horse cut the cords of his legs so badly that it had to be killed.

H. Burnham, who formerly worked at V. W. Hills, is to open a jewelry store at Fryeburg the first of next month.

F. F. Holmes has gone into a new business, that of moving pianos and furniture, and baggage called for and delivered.

During the shower of Friday, a week ago, the house of James P. Dunham was struck by lightning, though the house was not damaged very much, yet Mrs. Roswell Frost, who was visiting there at the time and Daniel Dunham were badly injured by it. They were both inaccessible for a time. Daniel Dunham was badly burnt on the right arm, about the neck and shoulders and down the left leg. Mrs. Frost was not so severely burnt, yet was a great sufferer. A physician was called and by careful treatment they were brought to and are now expected to recover.

It was a remarkable escape from what almost seemed to be instant death. Harry Chase graduated from Boston Dental College with honors. He settled in Haverhill, Mass. He died the past year.

S. H. T. Hayes of Baltimore is visiting his sister Mrs. James N. Favor.

OXFORD CO. CROP REPORT.

Our farmers follow general farming. Some of the young men are staying on the farms, very few going to the city. No demonstrations in this vicinity.

Very few unoccupied farms. Many farmers have some pulp wood growing on their old pastures. With plenty of rain, pastures are starting in good shape.

No agricultural clubs organized. Outside schools kept going where there are enough scholars.

But little difference in size of appropriations by town. A little less for some things and more for others. We have no town ferry, as there are not enough who need help to make it a necessity; $5,000 was raised for a free high school building.

Farmer's are buying less fertilizers. Grass is looking better than usual at this time of year. Old hay very scarce and high. Market mostly for local use and for lumber camps.

Not as many potatoes planted. Scarcity of seed and high price of fertilizers, the reason; good seed selling from $1.25 to $1.50 per bu. No seed inspection.

About the usual amount of corn, mostly yellow corn. Very little corn planted for the factory.

A few horses raised every year; more in the last few years than formerly. No stock breeders' associations.

Quite troublesome. Brown-tails have disappeared. We haven't had the gypsy moth as yet.

THE PASSING OF THE OLD STIFF HAT.

"Wife, take that stiff hat off my head. And throw it out there in the shed." In a loud voice he bawled, "I'll tell you I'll buy it in the ground." "Haint been one made for forty years, I almost like my eyes with tears. It brings me back to that fatal day. When you and I for a few days stay 'Took the train for Boston. And spent a few days looking round; And went to see the sights 'round; And walked the beach at old Berea." "We took a car for Malice town. My wife was inside sitting down. The car was crowded, 'twould hold no more. So I had to stand near the open door. The car had got well under way. I never shall forget the day. The car door came with a slam. And my stiff hat got slightly jammed. I tell you I was some surprised. When I looked and there before my eyes The hat I prized with high esteem. We crumpled all to smithereens. And while the car sped through the lands I held there firm by iron bands. To pull it out it was plain to be seen. 'Twould take the strength of a good old team. My wife was seated on the inside. She didn't know it was there. I pointed at that old stiff hat. And said: 'Conductor, look at that!' He wanted my fare, I thought I'd die; 'You're owing me for a hat,' said he. The conductor looked at my bare head And smilingly these words he said: 'I'll buy for you a new one. And charge it up to the Company.' And asked me if I'd tell my name, and he said he said it to a chap: 'Fit this man to a good stiff hat.' A man who stood there near me said: 'I'm darn glad, Mister, it's not your head.' And when we got to Malice town. The car it stopped, and he had dropped down. We went to the nearest clothing store. And soon we passed in through the door; We went inside and he said to a chap: 'Fit this man to a good stiff hat.' I came out feeling none the worse. But men with stiff hats are getting scarce; I've noticed they are thinning down. I hardly see one in the town. If you look up your pedigree, You'll find that they are G. O. P.; Boys, if you would be up-to-date, Keep a stiff hat off your pate. Copyright 1916, Frederick W. Davis.

Beware: Read Your Headings. The following letter, the signature of which we withhold, shows how easy it is to read in another column of the Advertiser under "Harken Back on the Past" and feel that it is the very present time, and that the articles relate to a stated number of years ago. This mistake has been made by a number on various articles, so the writer of this has made the mistake others have made. However, the following is interesting especially to members of the order.

Dear Mr. Editor: I saw by the Norway Advertiser of last week's issue that Pennesswasse Lodge, No. 18, K. of P., decorated the graves of their members for the first time. Will you kindly allow me to correct that statement? I have been a member of that lodge since 1882, and I would say that I have attended a number of those services in the past, and I have not made my home in Norway since 1884. We used to get our lady friends to give us flowers and make our wreaths for us, and we used to turn out mostly on Saturday evenings. We were attended by a band, A. E. Norseworthy, leader, and a large delegation of the people. We would sometimes meet down on the shore of the road from the Lodge Rooms in the Hathaway Block and march over to the Pine Grove Cemetery. There, the band played a dirge, while the Brothers deposited the wreaths. We would then have a few words from the Scriptures, some remarks by the Brothers, and close with prayer, then return home. To me it was an occasion of deep meaning, and I would think of the Great Beyond, to which we are all hurrying. I also think the names mentioned did not include all, as the following list does: Rustfield Cemetery, Brother Edgemoor, Pine Grove Cemetery, Brothers Young, Cummings, Hosmer, Crockett, Abbott, Young, Sylvester, Trus, Mann, Horne, Clement and A. J. Rowe, one of our best. Other members laid elsewhere, Mason, Fuller, Chapman and there may also be others of whom I do not know, that have gone to join the Silent Majority, and a new home where they toil not neither do they spin.

While writing, I would like to tell the story of our first church memorial service. It was in the Methodist church in June, 1881. Rev. Frank Smith, a fine Christian man, was pastor. The present pastor, Rev. Mr. Nichols, is a man of the same type, as Pennesswasse Lodge can truly testify to. The Knights of Pythias attended the Methodist church in a body and listened to a very interesting and able discourse on Pythianism and Christianity. The sermon by the Rev. F. W. Smith, (a K. of P.) was founded upon the text, John 15, Chapter 13 verse: "Greater love hath no man than this; that a man lay down his life for his friends." Lesson from the life of Christ were drawn to illustrate the principles of true friendship. The story of Damon and Pythias brought to light the fact that the Order was founded on the basis of pure and disinterested friendship. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion. At the left of the pulpit a rustic bower of evergreens with a white cross suspended in the center, upon which was the motto: "K. of P. Welcome," greeted the Order as they marched to their seats reserved for them in the center of the church. Directly in front of the pulpit was a beautiful Pythian emblem composed of an open book with a drawn sword lying upon it, battle axes, spears and helmet, representing the armor of a knight. At the right of the pulpit was the new singing gallery, used for the first time on this occasion, transformed into a garden of blooming beauty by the numerous plants and bouquets. This memorial service was in June, 1891.

WATCH YOUR STEP. Automobiles, in increasing numbers, will be in use in the streets and highways in the early future. Drivers and pedestrians alike should keep the "Safety First" idea before them, morning, noon and night. Some accidents will occur, even if all concerned are thoughtful and cautious, but they will be more frequent if the man in the street or the man in the car are guilty of carelessness.

The responsibility is divided. It is not enough that drivers observe the limit of speed; they must be constantly watchful and alert. "You should drive as though every man, child and chicken had a stealthy resolution to catch you napping and get under your wheels," says a professional chauffeur. It would be well for every pedestrian to call to mind the part of drivers and pedestrians alike, to guard in every possible way against accidents.

CARTOONIST WILL DRAW THIS PICTURE BEFORE CHAUTAUQUA AUDIENCE

This and many other cartoons will be drawn by Clayton Conrad, cartoonist, in his program here on the opening day

WILL SING OLD TIME DARKY MELODIES AT THE CHAUTAUQUA

Dunbar Southern Singers in Songs of the Southland Third Day Feature.

Come of the old favorite songs of the sixties are to be sung by the Dunbar Southern Singers in their programs here on the third day of the Chautauqua. These will include "Get on Board the Gospel Train," "My Old Kentucky Home" and many old plantation melodies. These will be sung by a quartet of four young women, with banjo accompaniment. The company is one of the best appearing among the Chautauquas this season. Charles Frink, banjoist, will give a clever impersonation of an old darky singing and playing the banjo, and there will be many other amusing and entertaining features.

FREDERICK WARDE IS COMING FOR CHAUTAUQUA LECTURE ENGAGEMENT

WILL BE HERE ON THIRD DAY.

The Chautauqua management feels a special pride in the coming of Frederick Warde to this city as one of the Chautauqua attractions in this Shakespearean tercentenary year. Mr. Warde is well known, has done perhaps more to popularize the plays of Shakespeare than any other living man.

The purpose of his work has always been to encourage the study of Shakespeare and to remove the mistaken impression of profundity and obscurity and illustrate the beauty of his poetry. Mrs. George Haggard, the daughter of his philosophy, the universality of his knowledge and his all pervading Christianity.

Mr. Warde has been an impersonator of Shakespearean characters for almost half a century and was for a long time a member of Edwin Booth's company, playing Laertes to Booth's Hamlet. He is the foremost actor of Shakespearean tragedy and is the first great actor to have left the stage at the height of his career to devote his talents exclusively to the platform. He has made scores of Chautauqua appearances, appearing only on the larger and stronger Chautauqua programs.

His popularity is due, of course, to his great mastery of his work and to his love of the people. He has thousands of admirers throughout the country and it is impossible for him to appear anywhere in public without being met with hearty handshakes and cordial greetings.

He is scheduled to appear here on the third day of the Chautauqua, and his subject as announced is "Shakespeare and His Plays."

To the Young Orator. Mr. Frederick Warde, who is coming to this city this summer for a lecture recital at the Chautauqua on "Shakespeare and His Plays" and who is one of the foremost actors of Shakespearean tragedy, gives this advice to young orators: "Speak every word clearly and distinctly. Do not use emphasis unless you have something to emphasize. Do not save the air with your hands. Never make a movement unless you have a reason for it. Never lose your temper."

If YOU buy out of town and WE buy out of town, what will become of OUR town?

JOSEPH ROBINSON PARROTT

It is a trite saying that the best products of Maine are her men and women. Certainly it is, they are to be found in every state or our Union, to say nothing of lands beyond the seas, and many of them have won success in various walks of life. One of these, the subject of this sketch, Joseph Robinson Parrott, has led a prominent part in one of the greatest and most picturesque engineering feats of the age.

In the western part of the state is an irregular parcel of land given to Alexander Shepard, Jr., of Newton, in early days when the Commonwealth of Massachusetts was rich in lands but poor in purse, for making a map of the then district of Maine. It was called Shepardsfield Plantation. Mr. Shepard was, perhaps, a better cartographer than colonizer, for he died insolvent. After his death, quite a portion of the original grant was sold to Andrew Craigie, apothecary general of the Revolutionary War, whose home in Cambridge, the old Vassal house, is well known to tourists, as the headquarters of Washington during the siege of Boston, and later as the home of the poet Longfellow. He was an ambitious man and not only encouraged agriculture in his Maine domain, but manufacturing. He dammed the outlet of Lake Thompson, put in grist and lumber mills, and had his dream of making woolen and cotton cloth. It is in this connection that the subject of this sketch comes in.

In 1792, Shepardsfield Plantation was incorporated as the town of Hebron. In 1829, Hebron was divided, the western part becoming the town of Oxford. It was named in honor of the newly formed country in which it was situated, and which General David Learned, of Livermore, the first sheriff, christened after his old home in Massachusetts. Oxford contains the outlet of Lake Thompson and the village of Oxford, first known as Craigie's Mills, and where the woolen industry of the town is situated.

Cloth-making began in Oxford as early as 1825, but was not in a prosperous condition continuously. Several of the mills burned and the personality of the firms operating changed several times. About 1850, Joseph Robinson Parrott, a native of Huddell, England, and an expert dyer, took an interest in the business, and from that day to the present it has prospered.

Mr. Robinson had not only followed his trade in England before coming to America, but also in Germany. He had a large family of children, born in the several countries in which he had resided. It was his joke that he had Englishmen, Germans and Americans in his family, to say nothing of one daughter whose nationality he did not know, having been born on the high seas. His oldest daughter, Mary, married George J. Parrott, an overseer in his mills, and their eldest son, Joseph, born October 30, 1858, is the subject of this sketch.

Young Parrott's childhood was passed in the environment of a New England manufacturing village. He was born a year ago. He played with his grandfather's mill, and as a result of early investigation with machinery, carried one finger with the final phalange missing, to the grave. He went to the village schools. The educational advantages were those of the "little red school house" (it was a brick structure in Oxford). The curriculum consisted mostly of the three R's. Thoroughness was the prevailing note. Pupples could not help being thorough, for each term they began at the preface of their text-books and continued until the close of the term, the amount covered depending largely on the length of the term. There was no choice of subjects. It was the same thing over and over.

Some excellent teachers occupied this little brick schoolhouse, and one of them was, perhaps, of greater assistance to rural schools in Maine, and to young Parrott, than any other man. Sydney Perham, one time Governor of the State. The free high school law, whereby every little village can have its high school, was a pet scheme of his.

Oxford was among the first towns to adopt the free high school system, and the first high school was opened in the fall of 1875. Mr. Parrott and the writer were among the students. The fathers and mothers of the town were some time in deciding what studies the new high school was to teach. Some thought it should be simply an extension of the common school system to which a pupil of any degree of proficiency might attend; and others that it should be devoted entirely to higher studies. Some thought it should be a fitting school for college, and others that its course of study should be wholly English. As there were but few pupils in town fitted to enter a high school of any sort, there was a compromise. Several classes of a grammar grade were formed and those who desired to study anything higher were permitted to do so. It was several years before anything like regular courses of study were arranged, or the terms of admission agreed upon.

Teachers fitted for high school positions were not as numerous then as now, and sometimes instructors outside the regular corps of teachers were employed for special studies. Dr. John Dearborn Holt was the first principal, and when the first class in Greek was formed, Rev. George A. Lockwood, pastor of the Congregational church in the village, was instructor. Dr. Holt, then a medical student, was an enthusiastic teacher, and greatly desired to send a class of boys from his school to college. Rev. Mr. Lockwood was a scholarly man, a graduate of Yale University, and the influence of these two young men inclined young Parrott toward a liberal education.

Things did not run smoothly in the new school, however. Before establishment, it was decided to house it in a more pretentious building, but the choice of a site made trouble. There were several available lots, but each near restless occupants somewhere else. The result was that the site finally chosen was seized in disregard to the wishes of the owner, Miss Frances Norton. It resulted in a law suit and victory for the owner. That broke up the school until the matter of school buildings could be adjusted.

This interruption caused Parrott to continue his studies at Hebron Academy, at that time the natural school center for Oxford County. Later he went to Phillips Academy, Andover, Massachusetts, where he remained until he entered Yale University in 1881.

Parrott attained a fair rank in college and took some part in athletics. He pulled an oar of the boat's crew in their annual regatta with Harvard on the Thames during his third year. Socially he was liked, and was a member of several college societies, including The Skull and Bones, in his time the most exclusive society at the university. It may be of interest to note that during the time he was at Yale, William H. Taft, ex-President of the United States, was a student, although not a member of Mr. Parrott's class.

On graduating, he took up the study of law, receiving two years more in New Haven in the university law school. On receiving his degree of Bachelor of Law, he was admitted to the bar of his native county in 1887, but had but one case at Paris, the shire town of Oxford County. In the fall following his admission to the bar, he entered the office of the late Honorable Charles F. Libby in Portland; but in a few months' time he hung out his shingle in Jacksonville, Fla., where he found his life work.

At the time of Mr. Parrott's settlement in Jacksonville, Florida was just awakening to modern life. A large part of the state was unsettled and given over to pine barrens and scrub palmetto hummocks. Most of the large cities we now know were then unborn. Railroads were only penetrating the northern part of the state. The winter tourist was just invading the region around Jacksonville and St. Augustine, but they were of the kind to advertise the beauties of climate and situation. Harriet Beecher Stowe had built a cottage among the pines and written a book describing the beauties of a winter near Ponce De Leon's fountain of youth. Those who were old, those who were ill, and those whose blood the northern frosts and snows soured, should go to Florida, and in a short time an immense throng began to start each autumn for the land of flowers.

FOURTH OF JULY STORY.

Was the wide-awake little boy Who rose at the early day; Were the minutes he took to dress, Then he was off and away. Were his leaps when he cleared the stairs Although they were steep and high; Was the number which caused his haste, Because it was the Fourth of July! Were the pennies which went to buy A package of crackers red; Were the matches which touched them off, And then he was back in bed. Big Plasters he had to wear; To cure his fractures sore; Were the visits the doctor made Before he was whole once more. Were the dolorous days he spent In sorrow and pain and gloom; Are the moments he'll stop and think Before he does it again.

THE KHAKI GIRL.

She's dapper, some snapper, she's mannish, she's neat, She's got the real soldierly stride; She's keen in her uniform, eager for drill, And her heart's full of patriotic pride. She's charming while aiming for camp or parade. At attention she stands like a trump, And she takes the formed marches with reso-lute zeal. Not a bit like an amateur champ. She's funny, she's sunny when rest hour comes, And she tries to forget she's a girl. When fatigue makes her feel she could drop on the ground. And up like a school she could curl; She's plucky, for lucky she thinks that she is To get such a wonderful chance. To join the ranks, to love and to serve, And to live for more ends than just dance. She's pretty, she's gritty, she's showing the fight. She can fight quite as strongly as they, Can work and endure, can gain great results, Although in her own womanly way. She's splendid—she's tender to labor that's hard. For 'tis God's noble flag she'll unfurl; She's getting all ready to do and to dare, And so here's to the brave Khaki Girl!

Federal Inquiry or Railroad Strike?

Faced by demands from the conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen that would impose on the country an additional burden in transportation costs of $100,000,000 a year, the railroads propose that this wage problem be settled by reference to an impartial Federal tribunal.

With these employees, whose efficient service is acknowledged, the railroads have no differences that could not be considered fairly and decided justly by such a public body.

Railroads Urge Public Inquiry and Arbitration

The formal proposal of the railroads to the employees for the settlement of the controversy is as follows:

"Our conferences have demonstrated that we cannot harmonize our differences of opinion and that eventually the matters in controversy must be passed upon by other and disinterested agencies. Therefore, we propose that your proposals and the proposition of the railroads be disposed of by one or the other of the following methods:

1. Preferably by submission to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the only tribunal which, by reason of its accumulated information based on railway conditions and its control of the revenue of the railways, is in a position to understand and protect the rights and equities of all the interests affected, and to provide additional revenue necessary to meet the added cost of operation in case your proposals are found by the Commission to be just and reasonable; or, in the event the Interstate Commerce Commission cannot, under existing laws, act in the premises, that we jointly request Congress to take such action as may be necessary to enable the Commission to consider and promptly dispose of the questions involved; or
2. By arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Federal law" (The Newlands Act).

Leaders Refuse Offer and Take Strike Vote

Leaders of the train service brotherhoods, at the joint conference held in New York, June 1-15, refused the offer of the railroads to submit the issue to arbitration or Federal review, and the employees are now voting on the question whether authority shall be given these leaders to declare a nation-wide strike.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is proposed by the railroads as the public body to which this issue ought to be referred for these reasons:

No other body with such an intimate knowledge of railroad conditions has such an unquestioned position in the public confidence. The rates the railroads may charge the public for transportation are now largely fixed by this Government board. Out of every dollar received by the railroads from the public nearly one-half is paid directly to the employees as wages; and the money to pay increased wages can come from no other source than the rates paid by the public. The Interstate Commerce Commission, with its control over rates, is in a position to make a complete investigation and render such decision as would protect the interests of the railroad employees, the owners of the railroads, and the public.

A Question For the Public to Decide

The railroads feel that they have no right to grant a wage preferment of $100,000,000 a year to these employees, now highly paid and constituting only one-fifth of all the employees, without a clear mandate from a public tribunal that shall determine the merits of the case after a review of all the facts.

The single issue before the country is whether this controversy is to be settled by an impartial Government inquiry or by industrial warfare.

FOUR-FOLD BENEFIT

You know that physicians often give two prescriptions, perhaps more, for medicines to be taken together, or alternately or at different times, because desired results cannot be secured by one medicine alone.

The most successful combination spring medicine treatment that we know of—because perfectly "compatible" and productive of the best results—is in Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pepton Pills. The former thoroughly searches out and expels impurities from the blood, creates an appetite and promotes digestion and natural action of the kidneys and liver, while Pepton Pills give the powerful tonic—they literally "put iron into your blood"—that just balances the requirement of perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla should be taken before meals and Pepton Pills after meals—patients taking them so report the benefit is four-fold—prompt, positive and permanent.

FOUR-FOLD BENEFIT

From Two Grand Medicines in Spring
Hood's Sarsaparilla Pepton Pills.

You know that physicians often give two prescriptions, perhaps more, for medicines to be taken together, or alternately or at different times, because desired results cannot be secured by one medicine alone.

The most successful combination spring medicine treatment that we know of—because perfectly "compatible" and productive of the best results—is in Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pepton Pills. The former thoroughly cleanses out and expels impurities from the blood, creates an appetite and promotes digestion and natural action of the kidneys and liver, while Pepton Pills give the powerful tonic—they literally "put iron into your blood"—that just balances the requirement of perfect health.

Hood's Sarsaparilla should be taken before meals and Pepton Pills after meals—patients taking them so report the benefit is four-fold—prompt, positive and permanent.

CHAUTAUQUA ARTISTS

Who will Entertain at Chautauqua Sessions.

Lee Francis Lybarger, a member of the Philadelphia bar and authority on tariff questions, will make the keynote speech of the Chautauqua, and will sound a note of warning on what he terms the wastes of government expenditures by pork barrel legislation. His address will be entirely non-partisan but is merely a method of giving to the taxpaying American citizen some "startling facts" as to how his money is being spent by Congress.

"A Congressman," he says, "is expected by his constituency to get as large a haul as possible, and the Congressman is the most secure who succeeds in procuring the largest appropriation of government money for lavish expenditure."

"The result is that one section of the country is robbing another."

Mr. Lybarger will recommend a remedy, for, he says, "I wouldn't tear a piece of money unless I could build it up better than it was."

After having heard Mr. Lybarger speak no one will question but what he is eminently able to suggest new methods of remedial legislation that could well be adopted by the national government to the great advantage of nation and community.

Mr. Lybarger is a man of wide prominence in the lecture world, author of "Land, Labor and Wealth," a recognized authority on the tariff and a great student of economic questions.

He plays on a violin over 300 years old and valued at $25,000. The instrument was made in Milan by Caspan da Salo, a starving violin maker. In time it fell into the hands of Ole Bull, who presented it to Ole Theobaldi at a banquet in Christiania in 1875.

Theobaldi made a tour of the world a few years ago, appearing in concert in the largest concert halls in the great music centre of every continent, and received ovation after ovation. He is the possessor of more than 60 gold medals and court decorations, many of them of great value.

Theobaldi will be assisted by Mme. Florence Alice Stitzel, operatic soprano, and Mlle. Helen Kelene, piano virtuoso.

Other strong features will be precluded by the American Quartet and Clayton Courard, cartoonist, to be followed by a host of musical companies, lecturers and entertainers, among them, Frederick Warde, the eminent Shakespearean actor; Andre Tridon, war correspondent; Victor's Florentine Band and Neapolitan Troubadours; O'Hara and Wetmore, musical artists and entertainers; the Dunbar Southern Singers and Chas. Frink, banjoist and Southland melody singer.

The lecture features will include lectures by Arthur Delroy of the New York Psychic Club on "Character Development by Suggestion," Frederick Warde on "Shakespeare and His Plays," Dr. Euclid B. Rogers on "A Living or Life" and Andre Tridon, Mexican war correspondent, on "An Inside View of Mexico."

The Chautauqua is coming here under the auspices of a local Chautauqua association, and season tickets are being sold by a committee of business men and others. The programs will be held afternoons and evenings from July 13 to 17 on the fair grounds between Norway and South Paris in a big tent.

The Chautauqua committee wants it understood that music will be a decided feature of the five-day program. In fact the event has been termed by some a "veritable festival of music." An entirely different musical company will be here for each of the five days, sometimes occupying the entire time of the afternoon or evening program and in other cases they will appear in the program only, followed by a lecturer or some purely entertaining number.

SUMNER

The physician pronounced the case progressive apoplexy. Dr. Webster of Lewiston, being called in consultation, advised that the only hope for the patient lay in the operation of Craniectomy which never yet had been performed in New England, and on Thursday Dr. Webster assisted by Dr. Bolster performed this delicate and difficult operation with complete success.

The patient experienced immediate relief, but did not have sufficient strength to rally and his death occurred on Friday, June 23.

Mr. Grose has been for many years one of the most prominent and popular residents of Sumner.

He was born at Hingham, Mass., on February 10, 1859, the son of Dexter and Catherine (Whiting) Grose. He was educated in the public schools of Abington, Mass., to which town his family moved in his early youth, his father being a well known shoe manufacturer.

On November 23, 1885, he married Esther G. Crockett of Sumner, and in 1890 he purchased the Hiram Heath farm and with the exception of a few years in the employ of Burbeck & Brett of North Abington, Mass., he continued to make Sumner his home up to the time of his death.

He served on the board of selectmen four years, on the School board nine years, during four of which he was chairman of the board. He was director of the Oxford County Telephone Company, president of the Black Mountain Cemetery Association and active in all movements for the welfare of the community.

He was Past Master of Union Grange of Sumner and its treasurer at the time of his death. He was also a member of Pomona and State Granges, a member of Evening Star Lodge, F. and A. M., and an organization member of the local order of K. of P.

Of Mr. Grose's two children, Ruth died in childhood and Dorothy was killed while a student of Hebron Academy in the terrible automobile accident at Norway in 1912.

In addition to his wife, Esther Crockett Grose, he is survived by his mother, brother and three sisters of North Abington, Mass., and one brother, Rev. Dr. Arthur W. Grose of Rochester, N. Y.

Funeral services were held from the late residence on Monday, June 26, Rev. Chester Gore Miller officiating, assisted by Rev. Dr. Grose of Rochester, N. Y.

HARRISON

Observes 83rd Birthday.

Observing his 83rd birthday on the 22d day of the present month of June, Alanson Daves of this village is one of the most active men anywhere in this part of the State. Mr. Daves is a native of Harrison, born here on the 22d day of June, 1833, the son of Bela Daves and Eunice Walker Daves, both natives of Harrison. His wife was Abbie Melissa Wheeler, daughter of Benjamin Wheeler of this town, who passed to the higher life November 13, 1903.

Mr. Daves has been a farmer, a wire maker for many years in the P. Tolman & Co. Wire Mill here, and a paper hanger. He has two sons and three daughters living, and in his declining years is enjoying life, living with his youngest daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Arthur Flint on High street.

Mr. Daves has been for fifty years or more a member of the Free Baptist church, and for 30 years was the tenor singer in the choir there. He is a charter member of the Harrison I. O. O. F. Lodge, and has been a member for nearly 40 years, joining Cumberland Lodge in Brighton in 1873.

In politics he is a staunch Republican. Few men of his age are so smart and look as young (with scarcely a wrinkle), as the subject of this sketch. He enjoys the respect and friendship of all, and is looking forward to spending many more useful, happy years. He is seen on the street each day, as erect as most of the young men, about town, greeting friends and taking as keen an interest in the affairs of the town as he did 50 years ago.

Mrs. Olive Whitney has purchased the Mrs. Mary Ross place on Maple Ridge and is living there all alone, which is saying considerable for a lady 83 years of age.

Dorothy Dyer, a moving picture star, from New York City, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Lillian G. Dyer, at Camp Pomona and State Granges, a member of Evening Star Lodge, F. and A. M., and an organization member of the local order of K. of P.

George Davis who has a position in Portland, was in town on Tuesday.

Road Commissioner Edward C. Jordan with several men are working on the streets in the village. Rol Davis and Horace Whitney are manipulating the road machine as in years past.

Post-master Kneeland has been having the interior of the post-office renovated. He has also installed several new lights which are a great improvement.

Mrs. F. Perley Freeman and son Frank Junior, are visiting relatives in Raymond, N. H.

Mrs. Cecil Nevers and two children are the guests of relatives in New Hampshire for a time.

BRYANT'S POND

Some Road.

The main road over the hills to West Paris is in very poor condition. Sunday an automobile got stuck in the mud hole above Vern Whitman's and was obliged to get to this village via the Ricker road and State road. This is only a sample of one of the many bad places on the road and yet the Woodstock part of the road is much better than the Paris section.

At the Willis mill only recently a considerable brook was flowing directly across the road and teams and autos were obliged to bump over a rock and through this brook in order to get along. It would seem as if this road should not be allowed to remain any longer than necessary in such poor condition. Considering that the trunk line through town will soon be built over it seems as if we should try to improve the other roads leading into the village so they may be smooth to ride over even if we cannot make greater improvements as soon as we would like.

WILSON'S MILLS

The settees designed for the Grange hall came up the first of the week, making the furnishings of the hall very nearly complete.

In some cases the entire plant was driven into the earth. At the Bean place, a bushel of hailstones were gathered three hours after the shower and served to help in making ice cream for the young people, something quite unusual.

S. O. McKinney went to Colebrook, Wednesday, to have some dental work done, returning Saturday.

The Whitehead party came down from camp Caribou Thursday and J. G. McGlesser, priest of the Farmhouse Club, went up the same day. S. W. Bennett, Elwyn Storey and a George Bennett, guides.

At the last meeting of the Eastern Star, the work was exemplified and a covered dish supper was served. Beth Scribner gave a reading.

Saturday evening the Ladies' Aid gave an entertainment at Grange hall. There were several numbers by the children including solos, motion, songs and recitations. Some of the members of the Aid dressed as children assisted by several of the gentlemen, gave selections. The last day of school was served and there was a social. There was a large attendance and especially fine returns.

High one gentleman who was very frequently mentioned and who was favorably considered was Bertrand G. McIntire of Waterford, Oxford County. Mr. McIntire was one of the candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor two years ago when Governor Curtis was nominated. He is a member of the board of State assessors and chairman of that board. He has many political friends all over the State and his candidacy was favorably received. He is particularly popular in Oxford County and was one of the few Democrats ever elected to county office here in the 60 years preceding the Progressive split.
